FEW WAGE CONTRACTS SIGNED BY EMPLOYERS

Few wage contracts have been signed by employers in the building trades, but contractors anticipate no cessation of work on the part of members of the labor unions, as conferences are still being held daily for an adjustment of the wage scales.

The employing painters have signed the new wage scale under which union painters will be paid $1 an hour, instead of the old scale of 75 cents. No agreement has been reached as to the wages of steam fitters or sheet metal workers.

Members of the general contractors' association have been employing hundreds of nonunion carpenters for the past six months. No regular contracts are made with the carpenters' unions, but usually some working agreement is made.

Such contracts as were signed last year expire Tuesday, and representatives of nine unions in the building trades have proposed new wage scales to be effective Wednesday.
